Lecturer in Maths Statistics

Riyadh, Saudi Arabia

Lecturer – Maths Statistics – Saudi Arabia

Dublin City University in Ireland has partnered with a state of the art local University in Riyadh, Saudi Arabia to deliver a number of 3rd level degree programmes. This is an exciting opportunity to work with two highly prestigious institutions.

This role initially starts as a year long contract with potential for longer term commitments depending upon performance. For this position, in line with a genuine occupational requirement, we are looking to recruit only female staff members for a female only university.

Job Role:

- Deliver course content to students across an academic semester(s)
- Develop resources required to facilitate student learning
- Set and assess exams and continuous assessments
- Contribute to research activities such as conferences, seminars etc.
- Maintain an active and sustainable programme of research
- Provide academic leadership through helping to maintain and enhance a research culture
- Develop and deliver modules in a manner consistent with DCU academic standards
- Use a wide range of learning and teaching methodologies and assessments which foster a positive and supportive learning environment for students
- Work proactively in improving existing courses and programmes
- Contribute to the design and development of new courses and programmes and adapt course content depending upon requirements
- Contribute to team effectiveness, leadership/management and administration.
- Represent the Universities externally as appropriate

Job Requirements

- PhD specialism in Mathematics/Statistics
- Experience of lecturing in Mathematics for Business or Statistics an advantage
- An active research portfolio publishing new ideas and findings in quality national and international journals
- A number of years teaching experience, ideally international teaching experience

Remuneration & Package

- Competitive salary.
- 2 Return Flights per semester (to/from Europe).
• High Quality Accommodation provided.
• Medical insurance.
• Excellent holidays.

To apply, please send a covering letter and your CV via email to terry.obrien@dcu.ie.

Closing date for applications is the 10th June 2016.