Statistical Demand and Pricing Analyst

London, UK
35,000 - 40,000

Apply

This position requires an individual with very strong analytical, communication and technical skills as well as proficiency with databases, statistics, and econometrics. Although working as part of a team is important, the individual should be able to work creatively on special assignments. The individual must have a strong knowledge of the hospitality or retail industry and be prepared to travel.

EDUCATION AND EXPERIENCE

- Bachelor’s Degree required; Master’s Degree in Economics, Statistics, or Mathematics required
- One year with comparable analytical and technical experience in pricing methodologies is required

KEY REQUIREMENTS AND SKILLS

- At least two years of work experience using statistical analytical tools
- At least one year of consulting / client relationship management experience
- Knowledge of scientific programming languages – SQL required
- Experienced in using statistical analysis tools – Knowledge and application of R required
- Experienced in applying statistical models to analyse consumer purchase behaviour
- Understand regressional modelling and extend interpretation and application of the results
- Advanced user of: Excel, PowerPoint, and PowerBI
- Strong oral and written communication skills in English

PREFERRED SKILLS

- Experienced in presenting analysis findings to non-technical audiences
- Interest in consumer behaviour
AT RMS, ASSOCIATES WILL ENJOY

- A rapidly growing, global firm with industry-leading results
- An entrepreneurial spirit and management team
- Professional growth through challenging assignments and internal mobility
- Competitive compensation and benefit packages
- An intellectual climate focused on solving client problems

The closing date for applications is 26 February 2019.

Apply