Social Statistics Officer

Oxford, United Kingdom

Working within the Assistant Chief Executive’s Office we are looking for a self-motivated, adaptable and flexible person to join us as a Social Statistics Officer. If you have experience of acquiring, organising, analysing and presenting statistical information together with possessing excellent written and verbal communication skills, then we want to hear from you.

In this role you will provide information on Oxford’s population, economy, housing and social issues to all the district councils in Oxfordshire and other key stakeholders within Oxford City Council. You will be joining us at a time of significant change. There is an opportunity to further develop the services we currently offer whilst enhancing your own skills by working closely with other professionals in this field.
