You are a highly motivated and skilled researcher, who will be joining NCVO’s successful Research Team. In this central role, you are responsible for managing and developing NCVO’s ongoing UK Civil Society Almanac data and research programme, the most widely used source of statistics on the voluntary sector.

You have strong quantitative analytical skills and experience of working with large and complex datasets. In addition to excellent project management skills you are confident in using statistical packages and data handling tools.

With strong written and oral communication skills, you are experienced in producing high quality written work and presentations, suitable for a range of audiences. You have excellent interpersonal skills, and work well within a team and with internal and external stakeholders at all levels.

About NCVO

Each day, millions of people make a difference to the causes they believe in through voluntary organisations and volunteering. This thriving voluntary sector and volunteer movement are essential for a better society – especially in times of challenge and change. That’s why, inspired and empowered by our 13,500 members, NCVO champions the voluntary sector and volunteering. We do this by connecting, representing and supporting voluntary organisations, from the smallest community groups to the largest charities. NCVO is an equal opportunities employer and we welcome applications from all sections of the community. Charity No. 225922

Benefits for NCVO Employees

NCVO offers attractive benefits including: 25 days’ annual leave and the option to purchase up to 5 more days each year, 5 days volunteering leave, subsidised gym membership, season ticket loan, flexible working including opportunities to work from home/off-site, generous contributions to a stakeholder pension scheme and training and development opportunities.

We are located a short walk from London King’s Cross station in a modern building, overlooking Regent’s canal.
